113 Planes Take Part In Raid On Vinh Ginh Target

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. and Vietnamese squadrons totaling 113 planes struck at Communist North Viet Nam today. A barracks area at Vinh Ginh was the main target.

Sixty-six U.S. Air Force jets and six Vietnamese propeller-driven fighter-bombers hammered the barracks, five miles north of the border, with 50 tons of bombs and rockets.

A U.S. spokesman described the raid as highly successful. He said all the planes in this and other attacks got back safely.

Aground, U.S. Marines were in action again to root out Viet Cong from around Da Nang Air Base. Four companies, supported by tanks, moved against the Red guerrillas six miles southwest of the base. Two Marines were wounded early in the action, one seriously.

Military developments were accompanied by reports of an impending shakeup in South Viet Nam's high command. There were reports that some changes in the civilian government also were likely.

Negotiations With Firms to Begin

Council to Study CATV

By D. Kelly Scruton

City Council Monday night voted seven to one in favor of negotiating with firms on installation of a Community Antenna Television (CATV) system in the city.

The matter was brought before the Council when President Pro-Tem R. N. Snavely, sitting in the absence of Mayor L. L. Studer, asked that a letter from the mayor be read. Following the mayor's letter a statement from Snavely was then read by City Clerk Ralph Dedrick.

Councilman Floyd Priddy then read a prepared motion for the Council's action. Priddy stated "Whereas, the City Council has had before it a considerable period of time, proposals for cable TV for Sedalia; and Whereas, it appears that the Council should reach some final decision with reference to cable TV for Sedalia;

"I, therefore, move that the mayor be instructed to call a meeting or meetings of the City Council in the near future, at which, persons, companies or corporations interested in the operation and installation of cable TV in Sedalia shall appear and submit final propositions to the mayor and City Council for acceptance or rejection."

Councilman Walter Jessee said, "I second the motion. I have talked with a friend of mine in Booneville who is on the City Council and he said they like it over there. But he told me he didn't have it because it cost $5.95 a month. He did say you could get a baseball game any day with it, but that won't have any bearing on me," he concluded.

The letter from Mayor Studer, who is away from the city on a vacation, stated:

"(1) There are now before the City Council proposals from five (5) different firms (some of them for more than a year) in which they request a license for the installation and operation of a Community Antenna Television System in Sedalia for which they offer to pay a license fee based upon their gross revenue for the privilege of doing business in Sedalia, the same as the Bell Telephone Co., and the Missouri Public Service Co., have been doing for many years, and which now produces a revenue to the City of Sedalia of approximately $160,000 annually and does not cost the taxpayer anything.

"(2) Therefore, it does appear that in all fairness to the firms who have waited so long and so faithfully for some kind of decision and also in fairness to the City of Sedalia on something as important as this will be to the future economy of our community, that a decision either favorable or unfavorable should not be longer delayed.

"(3) If the vote of the majority of the Council is unfavorable, then of course the matter will become a closed incident. However, if the vote is favorable, then I should like to repeat what I stated to the Council in a memorandum dated September 22, 1964, as follows, quote: "(4) If when it is determined by the Council to grant a license or contract, then it is suggested that the Council meet separately with each of the five (5) firms that have submitted proposals and have them place their final and best proposal on the table so that the Council will then be able to accept the proposal that will be the most profitable and advantageous to our community."

Pres. Pro-Tem Snavely's statement follows:

"I have just read a memorandum addressed to the members of the council by Mayor Studer. At this time as Mayor Pro Tem I wish to comment on this matter."

House Bill Plugs Tax Loophole

Makes Sales Tax A Gross Receipts 'Catch-all' Levy

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri House today passed and sent to the Senate the Democratic administration's emergency bill to plug a tax loophole by making the sales tax a gross receipts tax.

The 111-47 vote came after more than two hours of argument.

The bill was recommended by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes after a decision by the Missouri Supreme Court that vending machine operators, and other retailers selling articles under 25 cents, do not have to collect the tax or send it in to the state. Sponsors of the bill figured that would lose the state about $6 million a year in sales tax revenue.

But an opponent, Rep. R. J. (Bus) King, R-St. Louis County, said that figure was ridiculous. He said it would mean individual sales of articles of less than 25 cents in price would total some $220 million a year in Missouri.

He said the loss due to the Supreme Court decision more likely would be half a million a year.

"This bill," King said, "reminds me of the story of the fellow who killed his wife just to get at his mother-in-law."

He said the measure "is either the worst case of bill drafting I've seen in this legislature or it's the most ingenious."

In the bill the tax is referred to both as a gross receipts tax on the retailer for the privilege of doing business, he said, and it also tries to retain the color of a sales tax.

Sponsors, including Reps. Mel Carnahan, D-Phelps County, and Ronald M. Belt, R-Macon County, said the bill had been drafted to plug the loophole discovered by the Supreme Court decision and at the same time permit the taxpayer to deduct the sales tax in figuring his federal income tax.

Industrial Development Department Ordinance

The new City Council, Monday night, voted for the first reading on an ordinance which will create an Industrial Development Department of the City and another which will create an Industrial Development Committee. Final passage on these ordinances will be voted on at the meeting, Monday, May 17.

The ordinance creating the Industrial Committee will empower the committee to direct the administration of an Industrial Department.

Read for the first time was an ordinance which will remove all parking meters on the west side of Massachusetts from Third street to Broadway.

Councilman Walter Jessee under Streets and Alley Committee reports, announced his committee this past week made an inspection of the Street and Alley Department equipment and decided the need for a new dump truck and asked permission to take bids on a new truck and also on rock to be used in repairing streets. The council voted permission to obtain bids.

Jessee also announced a vacancy in the department and asked approval to appoint Charles Bennett to the job. The request was approved.

Under Fire and Water Jessee asked that an ordinance be drafted for two fire hydrants, one at 24th and Quincy and the other at 14th and Emmett avenue. Approval was voted by the council.

He also asked for bids to be opened on new fire hose. There was one bid, that from Ralph Erhardt of the Municipal Fire Equipment Co., Jefferson City, which firm bid 85-cents a foot on 800 feet of inch and a half hose a total of $680, and $117.20 on a 20 foot soft suction hose or a total of $797.20. Councilman Jessee asked Fire Chief Emmett Vaughn how the bid sounded, and he replied "It's low enough," and the Council voted its approval.

Councilman Robert Wells reporting for the Sewers and Sanitation Committee, asked Council's approval to seek bids on a new sanitation truck, and also on a steam washing machine which could be used in cleaning the sanitation trucks. Council voted approval.

Two requests for concrete curb and guttering to be built under private contract under the supervision of the City Engineer were approved. One was for Ninth street from Missouri to Harrison, and the other on the north side of 24th Street in the 800 block west.

A request of George Evans to have a railroad spur constructed across Mill Street, was approved by Council.

Two liquor licenses were approved. One for liquor by the drink to Kenneth R. Ditton for 121 East Third, and the other for package liquor at Birg's Number Two Market, Broadway and Emmet.

Council voted to destroy five interest coupons of $20 each on the Public Parking System. They totaled $100.

Officers reports for the Month of April were approved. They were: City Collector, Opal Hugelmann, $13,995.11; Herbert Wasson for street cuts $96.50, and plumber permits for $54; L. W. Dickman for building permits $208 and electrical permits $61.85; Dewey Houchens, weighmaster income $143; Lu Parrish, library fines $103.50; Chief of Police W. E. Miller, police fines $1,781; a total of $16,442.96.

Peace Talks Begin

Uneasy Truce Punctuated By Gunfire

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — An uneasy truce punctuated by sporadic rifle fire appeared to be settling on the Dominican capital today as peace negotiations got fully under way.

There were no more casualties Monday night among the more than 10,000 U.S. Marines and 82nd Airborne Division personnel as a result of the action, termed light by military spokesmen.

The Organization of American States' peace committee met during the morning in a conference attended by U.S. Ambassador William Tapley Bennett Jr. but there was no official word on how the negotiations were proceeding.

Col. Francisco Caamaño Deno, military rebel chief, was sworn in today as provisional president of the Dominican Republic with the blessings of ex-president Juan Bosch.

Caamaño was elected by the National Congress established under the constitution that was abolished when Bosch was overthrown by the military in September, 1963.

The committee showed some optimism Monday night, however, after U.S. forces sealed off the rebel stronghold in Santo Domingo.

Challenges Old Beliefs On Drinking

By ALTON C. BLAKESLEE
NEW YORK (AP) — A psychiatric team today challenged the belief that no recovered alcoholic can ever again take a drink safely.

"The assumption that abstinence is essential for successful treatment, and that abstinence should always be the goal," the team adds.

"Nor does it follow that the patient who is abstinent has necessarily achieved a return to normal living or adjustment." The report, based on a study of 32 patients, was presented to the American Psychiatric Association by E. Mansell Pattison,

M.D.; E. B. Headley, M.D.; G. C. Gleser, Ph. D., and L. A. Gottschalk, M.D., from the University of Cincinnati College of Medicine and the alcoholism clinic of the Cincinnati Health Department.

Pattison now is a research fellow of the National Institute of Mental Health in Washington. "The field of alcoholism still remains one of the borderland areas of psychiatry," their report said.

"Psychiatrists are reluctant to treat alcoholics and often have little experience or training in dealing with the specific therapeutic problems of the alcoholic."

"In part, due to psychiatric abdication, lay groups have taken the lead in treatment, but not without detriment to scientifically conceived treatment programs."

A report in 1962 by another researcher, Dr. D. L. Davies, that eight addicted alcoholics had returned to normal drinking "was followed by a furor of published protests of disbelief," the report said.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I am in love with a 21-year-old who has done something terrible. I am so ashamed of him I am sick at heart.

Last night Phil told me he was called up by the draft board and had to fill out a form. On the form he stated he was a homosexual. I asked why in the world he told such a lie and he replied, "Because I don't want to go into the army, that's why."

We talked for a long time and Phil said, "There are enough bums and loafers around who would rather go into army than work. I don't see why the government has to pull men away from good jobs when they don't want to go."

If a man says he is a homosexual he is excused from the army? If it's true, then anyone who doesn't want to serve could use homosexuality as an excuse. Please tell me what the outcome of this horrible thing will be?—OUTA MY SKULL.

Dear Skull: Phil will be called in for a psychiatric examination and asked for a letter of verification from his physician. Then he will be questioned by a psychiatrist who will determine from his answers that he is lying.

Phil could be charged with fraud, which might mean some time in the cooler—or he could be inducted promptly. The draft board will decide.

Dear Ann Landers: In September I married a man who lost his wife six years ago. We get along well together and our marriage is just about perfect. There's only one serious flaw.

My husband's daughter, Janice, who is married and has two small children, lives ten minutes away. She refuses to set foot inside our house. Janice says she can't bear to come here because there are too many memories. She grew up in this house and was married in the living room.

My husband and I must go to her home if we wish to see her and the family. I have begged her to make the effort but she says she can't. Her father is the type who never lets his unhappiness show, but I know he is hurt. Any suggestions?—IMPASSE.

Dear Impasse: Continue to visit Janice in her home and stop begging her to come to yours. Make it clear that she is welcome any time but that you will not ask her again.

I'm betting when you no longer let the hurt show she'll change her attitude.

Dear Ann Landers: Lester (not his real name) and I were supposed to be going steady. I wanted to test my love for him so I accepted a date on the sneak with Bruce (not his real name).

Somehow Lester heard I was out with Bruce and he took his father's car and went looking for me. The police picked him up for running a red light. Also he has no driver's license because he is underage. This is the second time Lester has been picked up so now he's in big trouble, not only with the police but with his folks.

Lester's mother telephoned me and said it was all my fault because if I hadn't two-timed her son he would not be in this mess. What do you think?—BLAMED.

Dear Blamed: I think it's terrible that a kid who isn't even

Accidents

Five persons were injured none seriously, in a two-car collision at Broadway and Grand about 6:40 p.m. Monday. Three were admitted to the hospital for further observation.

Injured was James Williams, 83, 511 West Second, driver of one car, who suffered a severe laceration on the top of his head, cuts on one hand and injuries to his ribs. He was treated by Dr. D. R. Edwards and admitted to the hospital.

He was taken to the hospital in a Ewing ambulance. Others who suffered injuries were Mary Mabry, 16, who suffered an injury to the right eye, abrasions on her nose and right leg. She also was admitted. Her brother, John R. Mabry, 13, received a chin laceration and was released from the hospital. Billy Mabry, 11, received an injury to the right shoulder and on her chest. She was admitted. Danny Mabry, 7, was examined, but was not injured and was released. They were taken to the hospital in a McLaughlin ambulance and treated by Dr. Karl Gonsler.

The Mabry children's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lee Mabry, 314 East Main.

Also in the car with the Mabry children was Mike Stultz, 17, son of Mrs. Zelena Stultz, 312 West Broadway. He suffered a laceration on the chin, was treated by Dr. A. L. Walter and dismissed from the hospital.

Driver of the car in which the Mabry children and Stultz were riding was Floyd Dorson, 18, 510 South Quincy, who is stationed at Whiteman AFB.

According to the police, Williams was driving a 1954 Chevrolet eastbound on Broadway and made a left turn to go north on Grand when the collision occurred. Dorson was driving a 1958 Ford west on Broadway in the north lane and did not see the turning car because of a car in the south lane, police said.

The car in the south lane was driven by Ernest Carver, assistant Pettis County Fire Chief, who reported he was able to stop when Williams made the turn in front of him and possibly blocked the vision of the car to his right.

The Dotson car appeared to catch fire and the downtown fire truck made a run to the scene, but no fire developed.

Parks wrecker towed both cars from the scene of the accident.

Extensive damage resulted to both vehicles.

A woman motorist escaped injury at 8:20 a.m. Tuesday when her car went into a ditch and struck a fence on north Highway 65 eight-tenths of a mile south of the D & J junction.

The Missouri State Highway Patrol said the northbound 1962 Ford sedan was driven by Barbara Burruss, 44, Shreveport, La. A rear wheel dropped off the pavement and as she attempted to pull back on the pavement the car went out of control into the east ditch and knocking out some 75 feet of fence, the patrol reported.

Trooper Richard Joos investigated.

(Continued from Page One) have learned that under a CATV system each householder is entirely free to subscribe or not to subscribe for the service. My investigation leads me to believe that a subscriber to the service can get excellent reception from all available stations; that is Channels 4, 5, and 9 from Kansas City, 8 from Columbia, 13 from Jefferson City, and of course Channel 6 here in Sedalia.

"The installation of such a system will be at no cost to the city and no expense whatsoever to any householder who elects not to subscribe for the service.

If a license is granted, the entire cost of installation and construction will be borne by the company which obtains the license and the city in consideration of granting the license will obtain a percentage charge on the gross receipts such as we now realize from the Missouri Public Service Company, the Bell Telephone Company, and the Sedalia Water Department.

Indeed the city can use additional revenue and the subscribers will have the pleasure and benefit of excellent T. V. reception.

"It is my information that the granting of a license does not require submitting the matter to a public vote but it is entirely for the council to grant or to withhold a license for the construction and maintenance of such a system.

"If the council decides to grant a license to one of the applicants, then it is in the public interest that the firm selected should have the benefit of all available good weather for building and construction and the service made available to subscribers without undue delay.

The Missouri State Highway Patrol reported Leroy Meyer, 34, 419 East Walnut, was traveling north when the 1958 Edsel coach encountered the deer. The mishap occurred 1½ miles south of the Cole Camp junction.

Councilman Walker remarked, "Mr. Wesner, you do a marvelous job. I wish you were a Republican." This brought considerable laughter from those in the packed Council chambers.

Arthur Doyle, representing the Commonwealth Theatres, spoke in behalf of his firm and a Sedalia group which also submitted an application. He explained he was asking that Commonwealth's original proposal and that of the local firm be withdrawn, and was presenting a new application, since both groups have merged.

Doyle also referred to House Bill 699 which would have placed CATV under the Public Service Commission, but this bill died in committee on a tie vote of five to five.

GOP Supports LBJ Actions

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP)—A national Republican party spokesman said Monday that President Johnson had no other recourse of action but send troops into the Dominican Republic.

Sen. Thruston Morton, R. Ky., speaker at a Shawnee County Republican fund-raising dinner also expressed his belief that the U.S. air strikes have brought negotiation closer in Viet Nam.

"I think the President acted wisely. It would have been better if we could have waited until we had the approval of an international group such as the Organization of American States but there wasn't time. The President did the only thing he could."

US Thought On Viet Nam Is Changed

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—One year ago, U.S. officials here were saying that the war for Viet Nam must remain a Vietnamese war — Americans would lend all necessary material and advisory support but not combat troops.

Since then U.S. official thinking has undergone a complete change.

Nearly 10,000 U.S. Marines are in Viet Nam, and paratroopers are starting to arrive. No one is willing to say just how many more American combat troops are headed this way, but it is clear that no mere token forces are involved.

What has changed American thinking?

The reason usually given is increased infiltration of guerrillas and arms from North Viet Nam. In recent months the discovery of Communist arms caches along the South Viet Nam seacoast has underscored the infiltration problem.

There are fears the Viet Cong is braced for a monsoon-season offensive dwarfing any of the Communist efforts of the past five years.

For the first time in months, American fighter-bomber and helicopter operations will be seriously curtailed by rain squalls, low overcast and fog. This can be especially dangerous in the jungle-covered mountains that make up about two-thirds of South Viet Nam's land area.

But underlying the new American push is a factor that lies close to the roots of the war itself.

Most American officials have become convinced that anti-Communist Vietnamese forces cannot defeat the Viet Cong no matter how long they try.

Many believe that a Viet Cong victory would come in a matter of weeks or even days without the gigantic support now coming from Washington.

The implications of this conclusion are grim. It means in effect that the Viet Cong already has come near to winning the political war for South Viet Nam. To hold back the Red tide now will be a question of sheer military force, feared that the use of American

A year ago, U. S. officials combat troops here could be a big propaganda setback.

Now things have gone too far to worry about the niceties of propaganda. The hope is that American troops will be able to hold the sagging line in central Viet Nam and that a second front can be opened toward North Viet Nam.

Vietnamese generals have been urging for years a frontal assault on North Viet Nam. The arrival of massive numbers of American troops here could make that a possibility.

Sounds Like Polysyllabism

During coffee breaks at lunch counters in most Sedalia establishments which cater to the caffeine addicts there is something stimulating besides the beverage for those who seek momentary relaxation.

Conversational routines can be either informative or in the lighter vein when the latest stories are banded about. Who thinks them up, from whence do they originate?

Butter-fingered, we stepped into one at the Bothwell when a jovial sipper of the brown liquid asked:

"Say, you know definitions pretty well. What is the meaning of 'polysaturated'?"

"Well it means excessive . . ."

"No, that's not it. Polysaturated means a drunk parrot!"

Perhaps someone will make an elephant joke about another word which in time to come will be seen and heard as much as polysaturated today. It is:

"Biodegradable."

For the benefit of our "poly" friend, this "bio" word means, literally, the capability of being degraded or absorbed by living things. More specifically, the word describes the new detergents being prepared for the market which will be more palatable to the micro-organisms that thrive in — and dispose of — civilization's waste products.

Foam from detergents that pile up the suds is not the most serious of the nation's water pollution problems, but it's one of the most conspicuous. In some localities, water drawn from the faucet has a head on it.

Non-biodegradable detergents were recently banned in West Germany and Dade County, Fla., and legislation is pending elsewhere.

The new detergents, due as soon as industry can accomplish the multi-million-dollar changeover, will forestall the need for such legislation.

Housewives will be pleased to know that some of the new detergents have tested better than the old in the power of washing.

Therefore, in the advertising of this performance one could easily define "biodegradable" as soft soap for the consumer.

Looking Backward

IRISH CATHOLIC: Just Like a Bellope.

The story is told of a little country church in a mountainous area of Kerry. When newlyweds were about to leave after the marriage ceremony the priest would inform them that it was traditional for the bride to ring the church bell.

The bride would tug hard at the rope, but find herself unable to swing the heavy bell. The priest would then signal to the bridegroom to help her.

The combined efforts made the bell ring out over the countryside and then the priest would say to the couple:

"You'll find married life much like the bellope. It's a lot easier when the two of you pull together. . ."

Not So Prudent

One of the oddities of current economics is that at the height of the nation's longest peacetime boom more Americans are losing their homes through foreclosure than at any time since 1939.

How can this be?

No mystery, say the economists. Rising pay and easier mortgage credit have induced home buyers to take a deeper, dizzier plunge into the cool, inviting waters of easy, convenient debt and practically perpetual monthly payments.

Then comes the dawn, and many a harassed homesteader discovers that fringe discomforts such as taxes, insurance and maintenance—plus the status urge of "we really need this" and "we just HAVE to have this"—add up to more than the rosy

Critics of Bombings Forget History

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — The critics of U. S. bombing of North Viet Nam are off on another comedy of historical errors.

Having already mistated the meaning of unconditional surrender and misread the history of the Korean war, some now argue:

1. That bombing is no way to bring an adversary to the peace table, since it only makes him madder and stiffens his resistance.

2. That strategic bombing never accomplishes much anyway, so we are wasting our time.

To the first argument, history lends no support at all.

The European phase of World War II lasted six years. Of all the Allied bombing tonnage, 72 per cent of that dropped on Germany was dumped in the final 10 months of war. That hardly qualifies as a peace table peppermint stick.

In four days of March, 1945, a total of 9,000 Allied planes flew 42,000 missions—more than all Allied missions in the full year 1942—in a concentrated assault on Germany's industrial Ruhr.

Steady bombing of Japan began only 11 months before Tokyo's surrender in August, 1945. But of this country's 33,000 sorties with B-29s, mostly from island bases, 90 per cent took place in the final five months when we were pounding the Japs into submission.

U. S. wartime leaders' memoirs, and accompanying documents, make plain that had we gone ahead with plans to invade Japan in November of 1945, we would have further intensified the bombings.

Our heavy fire raids against the enemy had by August burned the urban heart out of more than 60 major Japanese cities. Some were more than half destroyed. A single fire raid on Tokyo, just a few months before war's end, killed 97,000 Japanese—some 30,000 more than were killed in the atomic bombing of Hiroshima.

Obviously, in operations governing both World War II theatres, military men and civilian leaders alike believed that the way to bring the enemy to the table was to smack him hard — without letup right to the end. No one ever suggested easing off.

The second contention of the critics, that bombing is not of much value anyway, is more difficult to answer. But history gives it no clear support.

Nobody, of course, questions the worth of tactical bombing in immediate support of ground troops. Questions arise over the two kinds of strategic air offensive — target pinpointing and area saturation bombing of the sort directed against German and Japanese cities.

Exhaustive official postwar surveys of bombing results show that precision bombing of Axis war plants very often had little decisive, lasting effect.

But crucial damage was at length done to German aircraft production. Bombings of oil refineries and depots finally all but grounded the German air force for lack of fuel. Allied superiority in the crushing Ruhr air offensive was often 80 to 1.

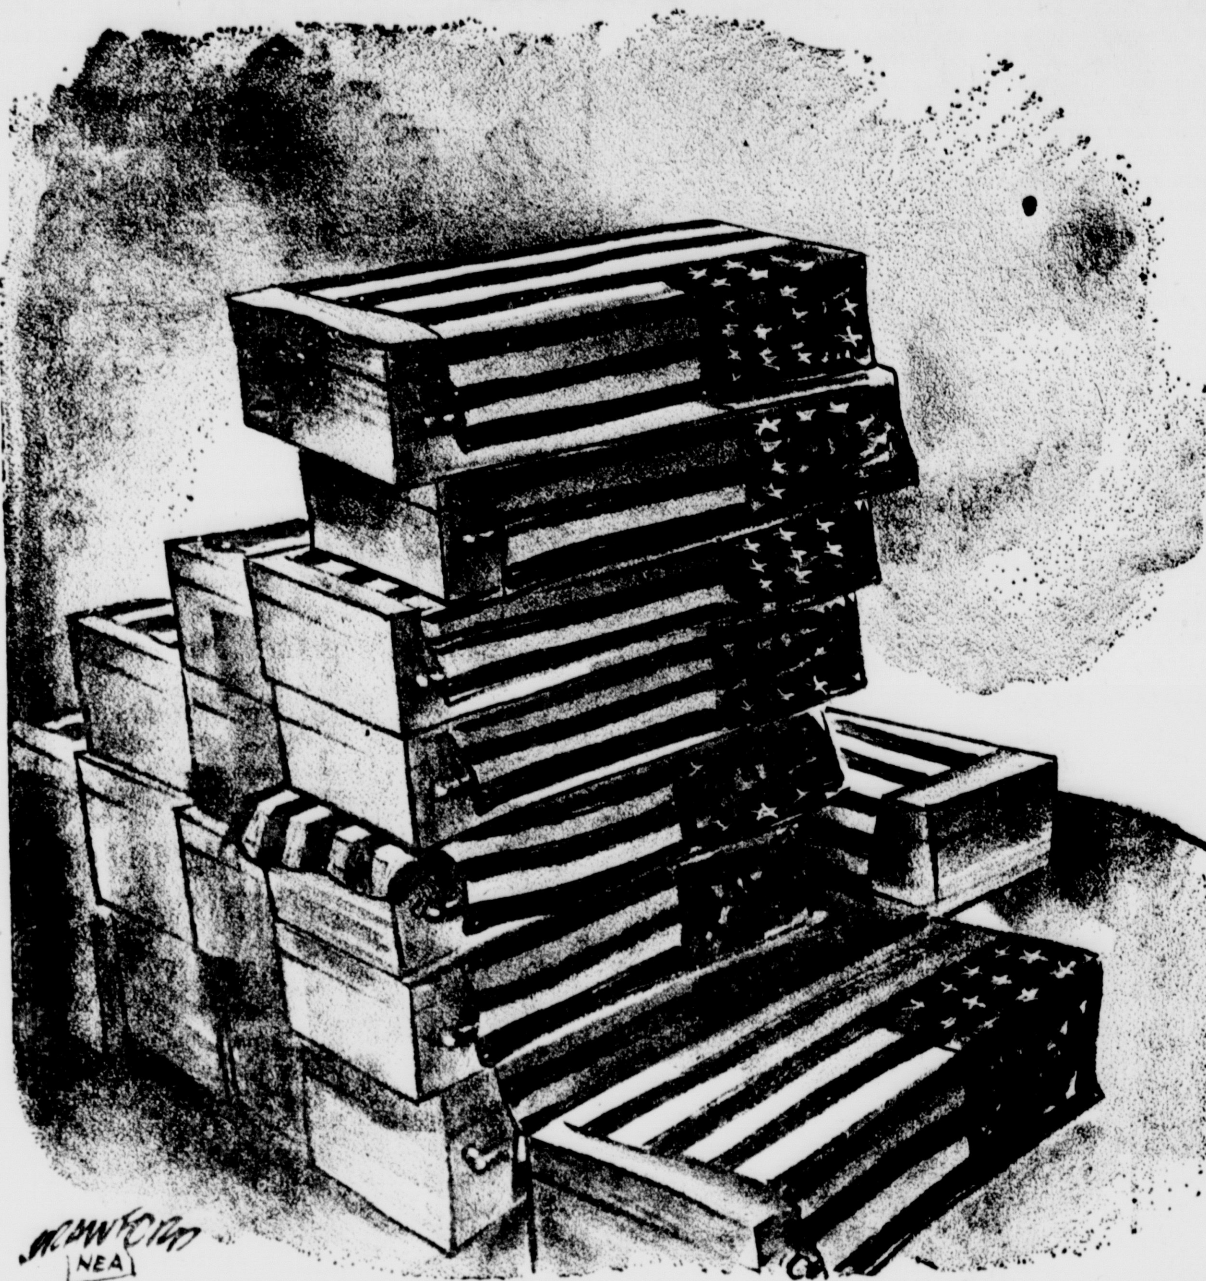

Furthermore, endless bombing of rail yards, bridges, highway intersections and the like finally brought virtual collapse of the enemy's transportation system. The effect was widespread.

The studies indicate that civilian morale was hurt, but not broken, by mass raids on cities. People surveyed in bombed cities were a little more willing to surrender than those in unbombed towns.

Already pummeled hard by mid-1944, three-fourths of all Germans thought then that the war was lost. No one can be sure what part the saturation bombings contributed to that notion. It would be unrealistic to say none at all, since 31 German cities had seen their cores leveled. The bombed-out area of Berlin was 10 times greater than London's. Firestorms ruined Hamburg and Dresden.

Large elements of Japan's cabinet wanted to sue for peace in the spring of 1945, months before Hiroshima. One peace feeler went out before July 1. The devastation of Japan's cities, with resulting lowered morale, can hardly have been an irrelevant factor. Only a few controlling fanatics kept the war going until Hiroshima.

Leaning Post In Two Doctrines

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, whether or not Asians or Latin Americans like it, has the Truman and Monroe doctrines to lean on in seeking to justify his use of troops in the Dominican Republic and Viet Nam.

He sounds like an echo of Presidents Harry S. Truman and James Monroe. But, while the Truman doctrine started small and got big, the long-lasting Monroe Doctrine got twisted.

In 1823 Monroe, promising no U.S. interference in Europe, warned Europeans not to interfere with the independence of Latin-American countries. This plunged the United States into more than a century of isolationism.

Eventually there was some hypocrisy in the way the United States practiced the Monroe Doctrine. Although still insisting all outsiders must keep hands off Latin America, it interfered there for more than a generation after 1895.

President Theodore Roosevelt summed up the expansionist American mood in the early part of this century. He said he would "show those dagos (in Latin America) they will have to behave decently."

American interference left a long legacy of Latin-American bitterness. One example: from 1916 until 1924 the United States occupied the Dominican Republic with Marines, keeping it under military rule.

More recently President John F. Kennedy in 1961 backed the disastrous Cuban invasion to topple Fidel Castro.

In 1947 President Truman ended isolationism by abandoning that part of the Monroe Doctrine which said the United States would not interfere in Europe but retained the part against all outside interference in Latin America.

Although this is having it both ways, Truman told Congress: "I believe it must be the policy of the United States to support free peoples who are resisting attempted subjugation by armed minorities or outside pressures."

This was after the war when all Eastern Europe had been gobbled by communism. Communist guerrillas were tearing Greece apart, and Turkey was in danger. Truman said, "Should we fail to aid Greece and Turkey in this fateful hour, the effect will be far-reaching to the West as well as to the East."

This at once became, and still is, the American policy of trying to stop communism cold wherever it pushes. Truman made it a matter of American self-interest, a matter of survival, to stop any Communist encroachment anywhere.

The result: aid to Greece and Turkey; the Marshall Plan for Europe; smashing the Berlin blockade imposed by the Soviet Union; the Korean war; the NATO alliance; and, later, an association to protect Southeast Asia.

Truman made his doctrine, which started with Europe, worldwide by fighting the war in Korea to save it from communism and helping the Nationalist Chinese on Formosa stay free from Red China.

Thus, in sending troops into South Viet Nam, Johnson has simply extended the Truman doctrine one more step. He has extended the Truman doctrine, combined with the Monroe Doctrine, to the Dominican Republic.

But Johnson didn't make the point clear right away.

At first he said he was sending troops into the revolt-torn Dominican Republic to save the lives of Americans there. Later he suggested people trained outside the Dominican Republic were trying to gain control. He didn't mention Communists.

Finally he said the American goal was to "prevent another Communist state in this hemisphere." And Monday he went all out by saying U.S. troops would not leave the Dominican Republic until communism was stopped dead.

He said, and this is where he combined the doctrines of his predecessors, the United States won't "let the Communists set up any government in the Western Hemisphere." He apparently forgot about Castro.

This method of gradually getting to the main point was followed by Johnson in turning loose U.S. forces to fight communism in Viet Nam. At first, he stressed the goal was to help the South Vietnamese keep freedom.

Later he stressed this one: If South Viet Nam was lost it would (echo of Truman) "encourage and spur on those who seek to conquer all free nations within their reach. . . our own welfare, our own freedom, would be in danger."

Anniversary Finds U. S. Drifting Toward a War

By Drew Pearson
(Editor's Note—On the 20th anniversary of the ending of World War II in Europe, Drew Pearson reviews world efforts to build for peace and the present drift toward another World War.)

WASHINGTON—Twenty years ago today, the great German army began to surrender. Its mechanized might had ridden roughshod over Poland, Belgium, Holland, France like a giant bulldozer pushing through shanty town. It had spread out over the plains of Russia, ripped south as far as Stalingrad, engulfed the Balkans, and crossed the Mediterranean to fan out over the deserts of North Africa.

But on May 4, 1945, German soldiers, knowing the end was a matter of hours, began to lay down their rifles. At the River Elbe, Russian and American troops had met, shaken hands, drunk a toast for peace. A war which for Europe had begun almost six years before was over.

On that day, twenty years ago, I was in San Francisco, along with many other newsmen, watching the leaders of the allied world build an edifice for peace. On the whole they built well. One foundation stone of their building was discussion—the vital importance of bringing two quarrelsome nations before an assembly of peace and requiring them to thresh out their differences in public before their critical fellow UN representatives.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk, ordinarily a thoughtful, commonsense diplomat, has discouraged congressional criticism of the administration's war policies. He accuses his critics of "gullibility," "nonsense," and "stubborn disregard of plain facts." President Johnson, in his latest press conference, did not agree. He said it was unfair to label all critics as appeasers and to discourage "honest, forthright discussion."

LBJ Is Right
I agree with President Johnson. Not only was the United Nations founded for the purpose of free and open discussion, but the constitution of the United States requires that a declaration of war must be debated and voted by Congress.

In most previous threats of war, Americans had no opportunity to look down the track, see the locomotive of war bearing down on them in time to avoid collision.

In Korea, the attack occurred overnight. At Pearl Harbor the American people woke up on a Sunday morning to find their fleet sunk. True, events leading up to those tragedies, especially at Pearl Harbor, gave indication that war was coming.

But in the current crisis in Viet Nam, this so-called "brush-fire" or isolated war has dragged on for 18 years. We have had time to diagnose it, analyze it, determine whether we want it to drift into world war.

This drift is dangerous. Never in the twenty years since the German army began surrendering has there been such a danger of war, such dire need to head off world war.

In the Middle East, Pakistan and India are engaged in minor skirmishes which could become major war — with both sides using American weapons. The United States has poured around four billions in weapons and aid into Pakistan, even though we knew she had designs on her neighbor. More recently we have poured lesser amounts in arms into the arsenals of her neighbor.

Flood of U. S. Arms

In the Dominican Republic, two revolutionary groups are firing at each other with so many American arms that the U. S. government which furnished those arms has had to send U.S. Marines to rescue its citizens. For years under Dictator Trujillo we poured arms into the Dominican Republic.

On the island of Cyprus, two of our allies, Greece and Turkey, have been at each other's throats, again with both sides using American arms. American jet fighters, given to the Turks, have flown over Cyprus, strafing Greek Cypriots below.

In Viet Nam, we have armed all of the South and, indirectly, part of the North.

Yet the arms race and the alliance between big defense contractors and the big military, which President Eisenhower warned against, goes on; with President Johnson recently appointing Admiral William Raborn, vice president of the giant Aerojet defense complex to be the administration's eyes and ears as head of Central Intelligence.

Last week, the State Department gave a secret OK to two other arms shipments — one to Jordan on the border of Israel, the other to Saudi Arabia for $200,000,000 worth of supersonic fighters and anti-aircraft missiles. The transactions have been very secret and not supposed to be known but despite Dean Rusk's objection to criticism, I think the public has a right to know about them. These are arms which later might help to precipitate war.

Arms are not the only reason why war threatens in various parts of the world today. There are other reasons — vital, difficult reasons, as will be reported in future columns on the twentieth anniversary of the ending of World War II in Europe.

Polarizing Glasses Reduce Glare of Light

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Association

A reader writes that he wants to get tinted glasses to ease the strain on his eyes, which he finds especially annoying when he drives long distances. He wears glasses regularly but would like to get his prescription ground into a pair of tinted glasses for driving.

Recommendations from various sources as to what tint is best are often contradictory and those put out as advertisements may be misleading. The American Academy of Ophthalmology has studied this matter and has concluded that tinted glasses, although they reduce the amount of light that reaches the eye, do little to reduce the glare chief source of irritation and a definite hazard in driving.

Democrat Pick-ups

A GROUP of women were having lunch together and thoroughly confused the waitress. One woman had invited another as her guest because it was her birthday. Then another woman wanted the first woman to be her guest. If that wasn't complicating things — who now was going to get what check? The girl stood there with a puzzled look on her face.

"Never mind," said one of the women, "just give us our own checks and we will switch them around," which she did, and it ended up that the first woman paid for somebody's chicken sandwich and somebody else paid for her scrambled eggs and toast — and everybody was happy, even to the waitress who didn't have to figure it all out. — H. Tigers Up Season Mark By Whipping Concordia Twice

by Ronnie Cowan

The Smith - Cotton Tigers made their season record 13-5, Monday afternoon by sweeping a double header from the Blue Jays of St. Paul's High School in Concordia. The first contest went to the locals 5-2, with

Tempel And Griffin Win Golf Tourney

The first annual member-member golf tournament of the Sedalia County Club was played Sunday with Louis Tempel and Maurice Griffin winning first place, with low score of 127.

Victor Scott and James Labahn, shooting a 137, took second place with Bus Greer and Carl Berry in third place with 141.

Tempel and Griffin stepped onto the first tee and fired away into a 30 mile-per-hour wind that in general sent scores soaring. It did not, however, seem to effect their scores, particularly, as they won the tournament by ten strokes.

After the tournament, a hole-in-one contest was held with each member hitting three balls on "Little Dinky", a 128-yard, par-three hole. The hole played rather tricky and long, because of the wind which came in from the southwest. Most players preferred to "punch" shots with medium irons toward the green, rather than float them in with more lofted clubs. John Van Dyne won closest to the hole when he punched a six iron 5 feet, 8 inches from the flag stick. Dr. Donald Proctor took second with the measurement of 75", and Bus Greer won third with a distance of 11' 4". Prizes were given to all winners in both events.

Mike Kraxberger taking the win. The Tigers took the nightcap, 8-0.

In the first game, the Tigers scored one run on one hit in both the first and second innings. In the first Cornell scored on John Johnson's double after drawing a base on balls. Steve Young represented the second Smith-Cotton tally when he singled, stole second, and came home on a Blue Jay error.

Concordia pushed one across in the third when Heilman took advantage of a Tiger error to reach first. A stolen base and a balk put him on third while a wild pitch sent him over the dish.

The Bengals put the game out of reach in the bottom of the fifth when three runs crossed the plate. Cornell led off the inning with a base hit to left field. Johnson followed up with his second double of the day for an RBI.

After two outs were made, Morton and France smacked back-to-back singles to score the last two Sedalia runs.

St. Paul's made their last futile attempt to win the game in their half of the sixth. A base on balls to Hasz spelled their final run after he was driven home on singles by Brabender and Litkus.

Near perfection was seen in the second game on the part of the three S-C pitchers who saw action. The starter, Jim Thomas, Jim Johnson and Hugh Crawford, allowed only two baserunners throughout the contest, both on walks. Thomas faced seven and fanned three. Johnson struck out half of the six he faced. Crawford also set down three in the final trio of innings he hurled.

The locals, meanwhile, had a field day gathering ten hits for eight runs.

In the initial stanza Cornell and Rozier both scored after clouting base hits and an assist from Morton in the form of a single.

John Johnson crossed the plate in the third after bouncing a triple into center field and being aided by Lemons' hit.

Steve Young, pinch-hitting in the bottom of the fourth, drove in Swisher with a single and scored himself on Johnson's base rap.

The fifth saw three more Tiger tallies in the persons of Rozier, Murray and Hudson. Rozier's triple and Crawford's single brought home the runs for the Sedalians to mark their 13th victory.

Wednesday afternoon Coach Finley's squad will travel to North Kansas City where they will participate in the district championship game against the Truman High School Patriots.

Bruising Six-Man Tag Team Clash Is Set For Tonight

Mike York

A bruising six-man heavyweight wrestling tag team clash is on tap tonight in what could turn out to be one of the roughest mat tests of the season at Convention Hall.

Joining forces to compose one unit will be Ronnie Reed, Doug Gilbert and Claude Patterson, all speedsters and highly-skilled wrestlers.

Their opponents will be the rowdy trio of Mike York, Tom Brown and Bob Geigel.

Reed and York are also pitted in a separate event as the Central States champion seeks to extend his supremacy in this section. Reed is back atop the area ladder after dropping a hard-fought match to the Stomper. It took him only a week to regain the crown and in so doing he forced the Stomper out of action with a knee injury.

Patterson, hefty Negro stand-out, will tackle the unruly Geigel in another showdown that promises rough going from start to finish. Brown is pitted against Richard Moody in a special grudge test.

Moody and Brown have been at odds the last several weeks over Moody's officiating in matches involving Brown. They had a wrestle-out here two weeks ago, but Moody didn't appear at home in that Way Back When . . .

A RANDOM GLIMPSE of the sports pages in 1940 revealed some interesting information about a spring field trial held that year by the Sedalia Field Trial Association.

March 10 of that year saw the completion of the 1940 trials, in which over 40 dogs were entered in four stakes. The champ of the all-age stake that year was Nola II, owned by Gerald Jordan of Vandalia, which gives you some idea of how popular and wide-spread the trials were in those days.

The two-day meet of 1940 was one of the most successful ever conducted in this area. Many of the dogs shown here were to be taken to the spring trials in Independence, Kan., after the local event.

DOES ANYONE REMEMBER

Carl Owen Hubbell, for the New York Giants in 1940? The record books indicate that 1940 was a bad year for the "King" — it was to become the only losing season after 16 years in baseball. Hubbell, though he didn't know it at this time 25 years ago, would win 11 and lose 12 that year. The left-hander became known to sports writers as the "Meal Ticket" because of his reliability, the 1965 "Baseball Hall of Fame" reports.

Hubbell pitched for only one team in his career—New York's Giants. Seven years before he had that bad year, Hubbell pitched an 18-inning shutout against St. Louis. Remember those days?

Mystery Still Surrounds Bold Lad On This Day

NEW YORK (AP) — There's still an air of mystery surrounding Bold Lad, the puzzling disappointment of the Kentucky Derby. But one thing is certain — he's out of the Preakness.

Bold Lad, the 1964 2-year-old of the year and a heavy favorite in last Saturday's Derby, was never better than fifth in the Run for the Roses and finished up beating only one horse in the field of 11.

The strapping colt popped splints in both front legs during the winter and there have been persistent reports that something was wrong in his Derby run.

"I can't see too much wrong," trainer Bill Winfrey said Monday. "He's perfectly sound."

Winfrey said Bold Lad would skip the Preakness, second jewel on the Triple Crown, and instead will be pointed for the $100,000 Jersey Derby at Garden State May 31.

Understudy Not Needed By Chance

By MURRAY CHASS

Associated Press Sports Writer

Dean Chance, his blistering fast ball getting the better of his blistering finger, doesn't need an understudy.

Chance, in fact, gave an award-winning performance Monday night while George Brunet waited in the wings as the Los Angeles Angels edged Boston 1-0.

The 23-year-old Chance pitched perfect ball for five innings and hitless ball for seven before winding up with a four-hitter for his second victory against no defeats.

Angels Manager Bill Rigney apparently didn't expect his right-handed ace to put on such a show. Chance has been plagued this spring by a blister on the middle finger of his pitching hand, and Rigney had Brunet warming up for the first three innings.

But by the time the reliever reached the one-third mark of going the distance in the bullpen, it was evident the Red Sox might not make it much further.

After the Ohio farmboy retired the first 15 Red Sox, Ed Bressoud led off the sixth inning with a grounder to first baseman Costen Shockley. Chance raced to cover first, but Shockley's throw was wide.

Six consecutive outs later, former teammate Lee Thomas started the eighth with a line single to right field, breaking up Chance's bid for a no-hitter.

The victory, in which he reduced his earned-run average from 3.27 to 2.32, kept Chance exactly even with the 1964 pace that carried him to a 20-9 record and the Cy Young Award as the majors' best pitcher. He brought his record to 2-0 on May 3 last season, too.

In the only other games played, Kansas City defeated Washington 5-3 in the American League and St. Louis stopped San Francisco 3-1 in the National.

The Angels' scored their lone run with the help of an error in the third inning. Jose Cardenal led off with a single and raced all the way home when center-fielder Lenny Green let Albie Pearson's single get by him for an error.

Successful home runs by Nellie Mathews and Ken Harrelson off Pete Richert in the second inning started Kansas City on its way. The Senators' Ken McMullen gave the Athletics two runs on his bases-loaded error in the fourth but then drove in two himself with a homer and a single.

Seek Top Drivers For Memorial Day

Memorial Day will again lure the top names in super modified stock car competition to the Missouri State Fairgrounds here. The Sedalia Jaycees announced today that preparations are well in progress for their fifth annual racing program on May 30.

Dennis Onwiler, Route 1, second vice president of the Jaycees and race chairman, said entry blanks are being sent to over 100 drivers — including the top pilots in the Midwest and local Central Missouri Racing Association favorites.

The Memorial Day races have developed into one of the top early season modified cards in this section of the country and are popular with drivers, who get an early trial on the half-mile oval where Missouri's championship will be decided during the state fair in August. Increased banking on the turns since last season can be expected to push clockings even higher this year.

Drivers will compete this Memorial Day in open competition, Onwiler announced. The A and B divisions used last year have been abandoned. The program includes 138 laps of racing — headed up by a 50-lap main feature.

Time trials roll at 11 a.m. and racing starts at 1 p.m. With the switch to open competition, Onwiler said the main feature will

Howard Is Lost To NY Yanks

NEW YORK (AP) — Elston Howard will be lost to the New York Yankees for six weeks and with him may go the team's hopes for an unprecedented sixth consecutive American League pennant.

The veteran All-Star catcher, plagued by an arm injury since the start of the season, will undergo surgery Wednesday for the removal of a bone chip from his right elbow.

Dr. Sidney Gaynor, Yankee team physician who will perform the operation, said today he was hopeful that Howard will be able to return to action by mid-June.

The 35-year-old catcher has been placed on the disabled list, which means he cannot be returned to active duty for at least 30 days.

In an attempt to shore up the catching vacuum, the Yankees acquired Howard (Doc) Edwards from the Kansas City Athletics Monday night. They paid dearly for the light-hitting but strong defensive receiver, giving up catcher Johnny Blanchard and pitcher Roland Sheldon.

Howard was a picture of despair in the clubhouse Monday night after the Yankees had dropped a 2-1 exhibition to the New York Mets played for the benefit of sandlot baseball in the metropolitan area.

"My wife was opposed to the operation," he said. "But I couldn't go on this way. I can't do anything. I can't throw and I can't control the bat. Shucks, I can't even straighten out the arm."

Howard injured his throwing arm in an exhibition game in Puerto Rico April 3, while attempting to pick Bennie Daniels, Washington Senators' pitcher, off second base. His foot slipped in the soft sand around home plate and his throw was off balance.

Ellie caught opening day, April 12, in Minnesota, and re-injured his arm. He has not caught since although he played three games at first base and pinch hit in two others. He has four hits in 18 times at bat for a .222 average. All his hits have been for extra bases.

Last year he appeared in 150 games, batted .313, hit 15 home runs and drove in 84 runs. His 1965 salary is a reported $70,000.

Premature Signings Called Off

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) —

After four months of negotiations with the NCAA, the two major professional football leagues have agreed to stop premature signing of college players, with stiff penalties for violators.

It doesn't mean the pros will stop their dollar duels for talented collegians. But the National and American football leagues will abide by specific rules governing the signing of college athletes.

The accord was announced Monday by Jim Corbett, Louisiana State University athletic director and chairman of the NCAA college-pro relations committee. Corbett's group spent four months hammering out the agreement on the thorny issue.

The NFL and AFL say they won't sign a player until his team completes its varsity season, including bowl games, and they will immediately reveal any contracts made with a player before his college eligibility expires.

The NFL, Corbett said, has already adopted rules calling for tough penalties for infractions, including the possible loss by a club of all its draft choices.

The AFL has agreed to adopt the same measures, Corbett added.

Disclosure that a number of players — particularly athletes who have another year of eligibility although their entering class has graduated — signed prematurely with the pros last fall touched off an uproar in the NCAA.

The NCAA, Corbett disclosed, has adopted regulations prohibiting the moonlighting of assistant college coaches for the pros.

Staff members of NCAA institutions may provide information about student athletes to pro clubs, the NCAA ruled. But they may not receive any direct or indirect compensation, including Christmas presents, gratuities or expense-paid trips for such information.

(Yankee general manager) I'm certain he will help us too. It's up to manager (Mel) McGaha whether Sheldon is used as a starter or in relief."

Peters also is serving as farm director for the A's until that job is filled, probably in the near future. Peters, St. Louis native, started in baseball as a clerk for Bill Veeck, owner of the old St. Louis Browns. He served with the A's under Parke Carroll when Arnold Johnson owned the A's.

He has been with the A's as a farm system official every year but one since the club moved here. That was 1961, when he was dismissed by the present owner, Charles O. Finley.

Finley, however, told Peters he had made a mistake and hired him back. Peters gives Finley credit for spending money on young players.

The deal surprised Doc Edwards, A's catcher, who goes to the Yanks. He said, "This is a good break and I'm going to do my best."

YOUR EYES AND VISUAL FUNCTIONS

All indications point to more leisure time for our people—more time for travel and outdoor activities of all kinds. For many this means adapting from the subdued light of home, office and shop to the brightness and glare of sun on pavement and water.

The Missouri Optometric Association calls attention to the vastly different lighting that the indoor worker must adjust to when he goes into the open for many hours or days of outside activity. The indoor worker should protect eyes and vision with properly selected tinted lenses. These can be provided as duplicates of your regular lens prescription at moderate cost.

With properly selected and fitted sun or sports glasses driving, boating, fishing, gardening and other activities in the open can be much more pleasant and enjoyable. Greater safety and increased efficiency are factors not to be overlooked.

It is a mistake to think that tint alone can take the place of the regular lens correction. It is of utmost importance for safety, comfort and efficient vision that the lens correction needed be combined with the desired tint in the glass. Your optometrist can help you with advice for your specific needs.

If you have not had your eyes and vision carefully examined lately it will be well to have this done so that needed protection from brightness and glare can be provided before vacation time arrives.

Night Work Preferred By US Marines Against Reds

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — The Marines are friendly at the front. Maj. Mark Moore is known as the hospitable host of Backbreak Hotel. "Welcome to your home away from home," he said at the entrance of his command tent at the base of Hill 312 where U.S. Marines have thrust out their perimeter guard of the vast Da Nang airbase. "All the conveniences you'd want including hot and cold running water." He pointed at a bag hung from some posts, and single or double sleeping bags.

Moore, 36, is a lanky 6-foot, 4-inch officer with tow-colored hair and blue eyes that crinkle easily into laughter. He is seeing his first battle action since serving 13 months as an aerial observer during the Korean campaign. He comes from Dallas, Tex., but his wife and four children now are staying in Carlsbad, Calif. As operations officer of the 2nd Battalion of the 3rd Marine Regiment, Moore helped plan the first patrols to push out from the key airbase. It is from here that several types of planes strike at military targets in North Viet Nam. So far, the Marine patrols have been conducted in hot and sticky daylight hours. But the enemy is likely to have its sleep disturbed in the future. "We like to work at night," said the major. "That's when the Viet Cong thinks he really owns the territory — and we want to show him that he doesn't."

As Moore spoke, Marines under shelter to protect them from them off balance," he said. "Until now we've really been on what amounts to a ground orientation program. We've just been running snatch patrols. 'The enemy knows what we are doing. They signal our movements by beating drums, flashing mirrors from the hill-sides and by blowing whistles. 'We've had no trouble cooperating with the Vietnamese troops. We take some of them along on our patrols, and if we take prisoners let them do the talking to them.' The Marines have been well indoctrinated into the fact that this is as much a political as a military war. The patrols take along gifts of candy and school textbooks to distribute to friendly villagers. 'This is a whole new challenging role for us with a lot of challenging overtones,' said Moore soberly. 'We've always considered ourselves a shock outfit. But this is not just a frontal assault as in World War II. 'For the Marines merely to land and seize a position is no longer the answer. There's a new perspective to this warfare. 'It's a long-range problem, not an overnight deal. We may be here for years.'"
